Re: Declare Certain Equipment Surplus and/or Obsolete

Background: Several items have been identified surplus and/or obsolete, please see attached sheets.

One line here is to surplus 903 Dell Chromebook 11 units. The intention when Chromebooks are at their end of useful life for the school sites and surplused is to either be able to re-home them to families who need them or to find companies/entities that can buy them back from the district. In this instance, these are the oldest generation model units for which Google has ended lifecycle support and updates making them unsuitable to be redistributed to families. With this in mind we will be bringing back a future item once we have identified exact pricing and value that we can get for the machines.

Many of our newer models have a longer life left on them which may make them suitable to distribute to students and families after they have hit the end of their useful life for the district. Additionally, Google has committed to an 8 support cycle on all new Chromebooks releasing in 2020 and beyond which will help to achieve that end goal.
